Who are Heartburn Cancer UK?

HEARTBURN CANCER UK was launched in 2003 by Mimi McCord following the tragic death of her husband Michael from oesophageal cancer. Michael was just 47. His death like many others was preventable had he known about the dangers of persistent heartburn. Michael had self-medicated with antacids for years, never realising he could be masking something more serious.

Our Mission is to:

- raise public awareness about the dangers of persistent heartburn and encourage people to see their doctor.
- provide information and support to those living with Barrett's, oesophageal cancer or reflux.
- get involved with research that will help provide better outcomes for patients, improve earlier diagnosis and help save lives.
